
Join the Novopro Team

Position: Metallurgical Engineer (Junior or Intermediate)

NOVOPRO is a dynamic company offering services in engineering and project management. They assist their clients to develop projects from very early phases up to the production phase in both local and international market.

NOVOPRO is looking for a Metallurgical Engineer with preferable experience related to the potash industry.

Some of the responsibilities include:

- Assist with chemical and physical analytical studies and provide recommendations on material selection, design of materials, corrosion control measures, operational testing as well as other procedures.
- Coordinate scheduling and supervision of material testing activities

Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree in Metallurgical Engineering
 - Master's degree preferable
 - Language written and spoken: English
-